FSU Department of Modern Languages & Linguistics Major Requirements Checklist:
French, German, Italian, Russian, or Spanish Co-Major (2020-2021)

The co-major consists of twenty-one semester hours numbered above 1999 in each of two programs selected. Students declaring a French co-major may take one single French course taught in English with written work done in English to satisfy the requirements of the major. For students declaring a Spanish co-major, linguistics (LIN) courses may count for major credit. One 2000-level course in either language chosen for all co-majors must be used to satisfy the arts and sciences language requirement. The student should consult with an advisor in each language program to select courses. No minor is required.
